FREW & CAMPBELL,

SATURDAY, JULY 24, 1875.

A MOVEMENT is on foot in Washington county, Pa., by the Grangers, to organize District Council, to be composed of the unties, of Hancock, Brooke and Ohio, a West Virginia, and Washington and Greene, in Pennsylvania.

THE Bishops of the Methodist Episco-pal Church, South, having decided that the sale of intoxidating liquors in large or small quantities, to be used as a bever-age, constitutes a violation of the Meth-odist law, the Augusta District Confer-ence calls upon the members of the Meth-odist Church to secure themselves from odist Church to separate themselves from firmly" enforce the ruling of the Bishops-

ATLANTA, Georgia, is one of finest and ost prosperous cities of the South. It is the centre of railroad connections. On the fourth of July last ground was broken for its first cotton mill-s steam mill This is well; there is no reason why the South should not manufacture profitably the courser cotton goods. With its adwantages, it must of course be impeded by the want of that complete system of hanical industry so fully in action in New England. Yet in Macon, Georgia, entton goods have been manufactured for years, which have found a ready and sat-isfactory sale in Philadelphia. When the South shall have diversified its agricultural industry, and entered cautio on manufactures, it will be on the high upon manufactures, it will be on the high road to a permanent prosperity, with this qualification, that it must become there as it is here unfashionable and not respectable for any able-bodied man to be without some useful employment. The old feeling that white men must not labor must be thoroughly exterminated. Atlan-ta is setting an example which will not be without its effect; the great gain may not be at first godliness, but it will be some thing quite worth while in a country without capital and possessing inexhauswithout capital and possessing inexhaus-tible undeveloped resources.

THE DELAWARE AND MARTLAND FRUIT TRADE.—The prospect of a crop of eight or ten millions of baskets of peaches from the Delaware and Maryland peninsula has stimulated the peach growers to find markets for this wast product. It has been settled that a fruit train will be dispatched every day over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to the cities of the as far as Cincinnati, Indianapolis Contracts have been made and Chicago. for 1.150 cars for the shipment of the fruit to New York city and Eastern cities, and there is besides a likelihood that the

Two weeks from Sunday next, a confirmation will be held in St. John's Roman Catholic Church of Wellsburg. Bishop Kain will be in attendance.

Public indignation at the crafty imposition practiced some months ago in Philthe insanity of the principal victim. Mr.

Robert Dale Owen, is announced to revive it with increased hitterness. simultaneously with this sad event comes a story from Brooklyn of a bare-faced repetition of the Katie King fraud in that tumbled out where he could reach them city by the very same impostor whom with pinchers, and in this way he remov-Mr. Owen ruthlesaly exposed. Immediately a story of the could reach them the could reach a story from Brooklyn of a bare-faced repetition of the Katie King fraud in that rely by the very same impostor whom Mr. Owen ruthlessly exposed. Immediately after the newspapers published Mrs. Holmes as a common cheat, she called upon the Spiritualists of the United States to protect her from want. Sums of money have been sent her from different parts of the country. The Spiritualists of Brooklyn invited her to visit that city and exhibit her powers. After many attentive examinations of Katie King and John King, who materialised much in the same way as before, the Spiritualistic Society detected the rubber-masks and other apparatus used by the medium, and again exposed her. In a report published officially by the Society in the Banner of Light, they pay: "We unhesitatingly declare that, as Mrs. Holmes has failed in every instance to give us satisfactory proof of her genuineness, we believe that every instance to give us satisfactory proof of her genuineness, we believe that her manifestations in Brooklyn were gross frauds, practiced upon as earnest, sincere, and humble an assembly of investigators as eyer met, who feel that their holiest and most sacred feelings have been which the English people hold his visit, outraged by the imposition practiced upon them; and which the refusal of Mrs made for the purpose of strengthening the

Mr. Charles H. Carroll, of Boston, relies to Wendell Phillips on the nature and functions of money. His statement is so clear and irrefutable that we repro-

To the Editor of the Boston Globe Wendell Phillips accepts for truth the pernicious error first promulgated as a doctrine of political economy by the celerated projector. John Law, whose purposes it served, that money is not an object of aximage, but merely the stedium of exchange, but the metaphysical abstraction the whole fabric of factitions current water and M. Beillien is exchanged. exchange. On this metaphysical abstraction the whole fabric of hetitions currently rests, and Mr. Phillips is endeavoring to found upon it a scheme of Government paper currency unlimited in volume, except in the desire and ability of individuals to make mortgages and encumber themselves and the nation with a needless load of debt.

Money is no abstraction, it is a commonity, the simplest thing in the world. It is the function of a commodity to circuate na no bject of exchange, to be bought and sold and this is expressly the function of money. Money is the most essential and conspictions object of exchange in traffic, and requests the pastors of tral and conspicuous object of exchange in commerce the wide world over. Nobody cares, as a question of commerce or science, what may be the ultimate use of a thing which everybody or anybody wants as a commodity, and is ready to pay for in value or service. As a commodity everybody wants money.

There is no special medium of exchange. Every commodity is capable of being a medium as well as an object of exchange. The owher of iron may find it convenient to exchange his iron, pound for pound, for wool, as a medium to exchange for wheat, or any other desirable thing, without even maning the money change for wheat, or any other desirable thing, without even naming the money unit. Nor is this sort of business very exceptional—it is common among farm-ers and country dealers in remote places. The purpose of a medium of exchange is perfectly served by an evidence of debt, an ordinary account current, any sort of base metal is a token, or even by a counterfeit coin or note, at the option of those who consent to the employment of such a medium; but the purpose of of those who consent to the employment of such a medium; but the purpose of money can only be served by that which makes full payment in itself, as an object of exchange, an absolute equivalent of intrinsic value in cost, demand and supply. "It is the essence of money," says Mr. Huskinson, "to possess intrinsic value." Purchasing power is not value unless it be paying power also.

There is nothing in a bank or a Government currency but the principle of an account current. We have but to debit the bank or the Government, as the case may be, to the value loaned on its obligation, and credit the same by the value received when the obligation is disposed of. Does any one suppose this compli-

of. Does any one suppose this compli-cation of debt and credit is money? or cation of debt and credit is money? or that with its bonds, mortgages, indorse-ments, and ramifications of embarrass-ment, and the inevitable crises it engen-ders, it is, to individuals or the nation, the equivalent of capital in gold and sil-ver? Does Wendell Phillips think so? Yet this complication, embarrassment, and poverty in the place of money, we must have it if we adopt his scheme of currency, or continue the mixed system we have now, for so far as we substitute we have now, for so far as we substitute an inferior currency for money, money will not maintain its value, and as soon and there is besides a likelihood that the American Steamship Company of Philadelphia will fit up their vessels with refrigerators for a new peach trade with Liverpool. It is thought that 25,000 to 30,000 baskets of peaches may be transported each trip on these vessels, and that the venture will pay. Middletown, Maryland, will be the great collecting and distributing point, where an immense cooling establishment has been creeted to secure favorable and uniform temperature for tempering storage of fruit awaiting transportation. The energy of the peachgrowers in finding markets for their perishable crop, utilizing all the modern modes of quick transportation to distant points, will be of immense benefit to the section they represent, which is no doubt the greatest peach orchard in the world.

PARASITES IN THE HUMAN EAR.-A young man named Henry Futcher ap-plied to Dr. Linde the other day asking for relief from a terrible pain in the side of the head which was driving him almost to distraction.
